

The Institute for African-American Mentoring in Computing Sciences pronounced “I Am CS,” is a National Science Foundation (NSF) Broadening Participation in Computing Alliance comprised of the following colleges/universities:

Our Programs

- ❖ Collaborative Research Experiences for Undergraduates (CREU)
- ❖ Distinguished Fellowship Writing Workshop
- ❖ Distributed Research Experiences for Undergraduates (DREU)
- ❖ Future Faculty and Research Scientist Mentoring Program
- ❖ iAAMCS Distinguished Lecture Series (DLS)
- ❖ iAAMCS MentorNet
- ❖ Modern Figures Podcast
- ❖ Morehouse-Spelman Virtual Mentoring Program
- ❖ National Society for Blacks in Computing (NSBC) Conference

Partner with Us

- ❖ Support the CREU and DREU programs by hosting students in your lab to conduct scholarly research
Contact: Dr. Elva Jones (jonese@wssu.edu), Dr. Monica Anderson (Anderson@cs.ua.edu)
- ❖ Host an iAAMCS DLS speaker on your campus and allow your diverse students in NSBE, SHPE, SWE, etc., to meet with them
Contact: Dr. Cheryl Seals (sealscd@auburn.edu)
- ❖ Collaborate with iAAMCS leadership for the development of BPC plans, publications, and workshop submissions
Contact: The iAAMCS Leadership Team (leadership@iaamcs.org)
- ❖ Submit job opportunities to our AAPHDCS Listserv of over 400 diverse CS doctoral students, faculty, and industry professionals
Contact: Dr. Juan E. Gilbert (juan@ufl.edu)

Our Mission

- To increase the number of African-Americans receiving Ph.D. degrees in C.S.
- To promote and engage students in teaching and training opportunities, and
- To add more diverse researchers into the advanced technology workforce!

Visit www.iAAMCS.org for more information